The NEW-ENGLAND

ALMANACK,

For the Year of our Lord CHRIST,

1764.

Ephemerides

Being BISSEXTILE or LEAP YEAR; and the Fourth of the Reign of KING GEORGE III.

CONTAINING,

An Ephemeris; Sun and Moon's rising and setting; Time of High Water at Providence; Courts; Judgment of the Weather; and Spring Tides; with every Thing else necessary and useful in an ALMANACK.

Calculated for the Meridian of Providence, in New-England, Lat. 41 deg. 50 m. N. and 4 h. 44 m. West from LONDON, but without any sensible Error, may serve all the American Colonies. [Latitude of St. Paul's in LONDON, (according to Dr. Halley*) is* 51 deg. 30 m. 40 s. North, and the Lat. of the Royal Observatory 51 deg. 28 m. 30 s. North, but we are told in the Preface to the Doctor's Tables, that the latter is somewhat too small.]

By BENJAMIN WEST, Philomath.

E'en Times are in perpetual Flux, and run,
Like Rivers from their Fountains rolling on.
For Time, no more than Streams, is at a Stay;
The flying Hour is ever on her Way:
And as the Fountain still supplies her Store;
The Wave behind impels the Wave before;
Thus in successive Course the Minutes run,
And urge their Predecessor Minutes on,
Still moving, ever new: For former Things
Are laid aside, like abdicated Kings;
And ev'ry Moment alters what is done,
And innovates some Act, 'till then unknown. Ovid. Mit.

KIND READER,

THE generous Reception and universal Encouragement which m last Year's Labors have met with, thro' a very extensive Circu lation, not only enables me to continue my Calculations, but excite an extraordinary Zeal to evince my Gratitude, and retain the Continu ance of the Public Approbation.

It is unnecessary, and perhaps might be thought impertinent, t illustrate upon the Utility of an Almanack, acknowledged by ALL t be peculiarly adapted to the New-England Colonies, or it's acknowledge Superiority over Those that are with such Pains spread thro' th Country as infallible:—Yet, thus much I will venture to assert, tha this Year's Performance merits still more the Protection of the Public, tha the preceding, many Additions and Improvements, of very great Impor tance, having been made, and such Care and Accuracy observ'd in ever Part of the Calculations, &c. &c. as, I hope, will at once testify m Gratitude and Integrity:—And I flatter myself, it will not only full answer all the Designs of an Almanack, but afford some pleasing Amuse ment; the profitable and the pleasant being so mingled, as must yiel great Satisfaction.

I have only to wish the Continuance of the Favor I have experienced and to assure my Readers, that this New-England Almanack shall b continued with such Improvements and Correctness, as will render i the completest and cheapest ever published in America.——I am, Kin Reader, with sincere Wishes for your Felicity, your obliged Servant,

Benjamin West.

At Swanſey, the ſecond 7th Day of the eleventh Month.

When Surfeit, or Unthankfulness, destroys,
In Nature's narrow Sphere, our solid Joys,
In Fancy's airy Land of Noise and Show,
Where nought but Dreams, no real Pleasures grow
Like Cats in Air-pumps, to subsist we strive,
On Joys too thin to keep the Soul alive. YOUNG.
